Social Security Number Verification

The most significant elements of the employment screening process.

Experts report that social security number fraud is one of the most abused pieces of personal information.

- Verify an applicant's social security number
- Previous residential addresses for up to seven years.
- Detect the fraudulent use of social security numbers.

Drug Testing

Be alert to substance abuse problems in your workplace.

With over 9 million employees currently using illicit drugs, it is more vital than ever that employers screen for drugs. When drugs appear in the workplace, employee theft is a much higher risk.

- Drug abuse causes poor productivity
- Provide a safe work environment
- A drug-free work place is essential to the future success of your company.

Worker's Comp Records

Compensation Claims

This service provides information on all individual cost claims. *All claims filed for a Social Security Number, dates of injuries, current office handling the claim, and ICD-9-M codes.

We also investigate Worker's Compensation Fraud. Let our well-trained investigators meet with you today. *Results vary depending on state privacy laws.

Employment History Verification

Verify applicant's experience before you hire them.

This service provides the ability to place orders for verification of previous employment and will return information such as dates of employment, position held, and salary (if available).

Education & Degree Verification

The most common area of resume fraud is overstatement of the applicant's education.

Security Hut, Inc. can determine if your applicant is qualified to do the job. Education is one of the most important components in determining salary.

FBI Criminal Record Check

National Background Check.

Direct from the FBI, this criminal background check is a must if your new applicant has lived out of state.
